1.1. About Tbilisi

Founded in the 5th century by Vakhtang Gorgasali, the monarch of Georgia's precursor Kingdom of Iberia, Tbilisi has served, with various intervals, as Georgia's capital for nearly 1500 years and represents a significant industrial, social, and cultural center of the country.

Historically, Tbilisi has been home to peoples of diverse cultural, ethnic, and religious backgrounds, though it is now overwhelmingly Eastern Orthodox Christian. Tbilisi's varied history is reflected in its architecture, which is a mix of medieval, classical, and Soviet structures. Notable tourist destinations include cathedrals like Sameba and Sioni, classical Freedom Square and Rustaveli Avenue, medieval Narikala Fortress, pseudo-Moorish Opera Theater, and the Georgian National Museum.

What to do in Tbilisi

- Old Tbilisi. Perhaps one of the most distinctive pleasures of walking through the Old City, with its old-style balconies, ancient churches, winding streets, and charming shops. Be prepared to see a number of eclectic sights, from the abandoned streetcar near Erekle Street to the art galleries of Chardini Street to the stunning modern art lining Sioni Street. Sub-neighborhoods include Sololaki, with its elegant restaurants and art nouveau architecture, Old Tbilisi proper - with sites ranging from churches to mosques to sulfur baths, Betelmi - housing two of the city's oldest churches and the stunning vistas of the Narikala Fortress - and Mtatsminda, just up the mountain from Rustaveli Avenues
- Climb up to the Narikala Fortress. The crumbling ruins of this once-great fortress, standing alongside the Upper Betelmi Churches and the stunning Botanical gardens, offer panoramic views of the city below. But be warned - it's quite a steep climb - and while the lack of bureaucracy and guard-rails can be liberating for some, you may want to pay extra care to watch your step. Now, the best way to visit is by aerial tramway, an exciting experience with stunning views of the city, only for 1 GEL. And you can enjoy the way down walking to the mosque and the baths. The usual metro card can be used.

- Botanical garden. National botanic garden of Georgia, lying in the Tsavkisis-Tskali Gorge near Narikala Fortress, has not only collection of plants, but is also a lovely park with scenic waterfall which is great for a dip on a hot summers' day, although you need to avoid the guards. 1 GEL
- Sulfur Baths. The bath district is called Abanotubani and is on the south side of the Metekhi bridge. It is easy to spot with its small domes on ground level. There are several small baths offering different levels of comfort. The baths are relatively small, and you may have to wait for a pool to become available.
- Turtle Lake (Take a taxi or walk up from Saburtalo). This lake is located in the hilly outskirts of Tbilisi. A popular weekend getaway for families, the lake offers pedal-boat rentals as well as swimming (deckchairs optional) for reasonable prices (swimming entry, without deckchair, is about 3 GEL). Alright for a hot summer day, and offering views of both the mountains and the city below. Snack bars, restaurants and fruit cocktail shakers are available overlooking the lake.
- Lake Lisi. Much further out than Turtle Lake (a cab will set you back about 10-15 GEL each way), Lake Lisi is much larger and more remote, with long, winding mountain walks surrounding the lake.

2.3.1. Visa Information for Foreign Citizens

For up to date information: <https://www.geoconsul.gov.ge/en/visaInformation>

2.3.2. Accommodation

Students, scholars and visitors to IBSU will have to seek housing off-campus. There is no dorm provided by the University at this time. Many students prefer to find shared housing close to campus in Didi Dighomi, Dighomi, Didube, Isani and Varketili. Suburbs cost cheaper, possibly around $350.

There are many rental agents around. Yashar knows Turkish, for instance: +995 557 96 79 67. It would be advisable to rent an apartment only for a group of students. Otherwise, rent would be expensive.

There is a private hostel (Istanbul): mobile: +995 555 40 38 72; work: +995 322 36 30 13 Address: 38A, Saburtalo St.

The city is also serviced by a network of mini buses that drive set routes around Tbilisi. Taxis are one of the best ways of getting around the immediate city, as they can be found almost anywhere. Fares are very affordable, and should never cost more than 15 GEL.

The bus and subway fare is paid via control-cash devices. Paying straight to the driver is banned. Every passenger is using the travelling card “Metromoney” at a discount. The traveling cards are sold in every subway stations. The passenger pays 2 GEL and recharges the card according to the desired amount (0.50 GEL at least). 2.3.3.1. Subway fare (Metro)

Tbilisi has a two-line metro system, which operates 06:00-23:59.

All signs inside the metro are in Georgian and English. Station names are announced in both English and Georgian as well. There are a few system maps in carriages, usually located above one of the carriage doors. spoken. Take a bilingual map with you if you are not proficient with the local alphabet/pronunciation.

A trip with the metro and bus system in Tbilisi costs GEL0.50, but you will have to buy a Metromani card (GEL2) at the counter.

2.3.3.2. Bus

City buses are yellow, and come in various sizes. The bus number and a description of the route are usually listed on signs in the bus windows, but only in Georgian. The signs are in English and Georgian, and display the bus number, minutes to arrival, and destination.

Board through any door you like, usually the double doors in the middle are easiest. A journey costs GEL0.50, and exact change is required if you don't have a touch card (which can be purchased at metro

2.3.4. Food in Georgia

Georgian food includes a surprising number of unique and delicious dishes, and this should come as no surprise as Georgians are traditionally known for being as passionate about food as they are about their guests. Depending on where and what you would like to eat, the daily catering can range between 5 and 20 USD in Tbilisi.

For some prices of the products please refer to the following website: http://www.numbeo.com/cost-of-living/city_result.jsp?country=Georgia&city=Tbilisi

Food you have to try for sure:

- Khinkhali - Georgian dumpling filled with either meat, potatoes, mushrooms, etc. Do not eat the doughy pinched part (it's seen as very rude and cheap), but do use it to hold up the khinkali whilst you eat from the bottom (and be sure to catch all the gravy from the meat khinkali). The pinched part is also used to keep count of how many khinkhali are eaten by each person.
- Khachapuri - Georgian circular bread often filled with cheese.
- Mtsvadi - grilled skewered meat.

- Kababi - chopped and seasoned meat which is grilled on a skewer. Often served wrapped in a thin flat bread in Georgia.

2.3.5. Stay safe

Tbilisi is a safe city. The police system was reformed completely and the recent polls show that public's trust in police shifted from nearly 10% to 88%. The police are usually quick to respond. You can even find policemen speaking in English.

While walking is generally fine, even for solo women, it makes sense to take a bus or taxi home at night. Use common sense and big-city awareness. Night time at the clubs and bars are safe, and taxi service is safe as long as it's a company taxi like "009" or others. The public bus is also a good, safe option for 0.50 GEL.

Police Tel: 022. or 112 from Mobiles; Ambulance Tel: 022 or 033 or 031.

2.3.6. Communication

There are 3 GSM operators of mobile phone service:

- Geocell: provides 4G, covers all of Georgia, packet data deals available for prepaid. None or 2 GEL for the SIM, 5 GEL for 1.2 GB of data. There is a Geocell office in the Marjanishvili metro station.
- Magti: provides 4G. Also offers fiber optic internet service.
- Beeline: Offers 4G, the cheapest of all sim cards, but does not get the best reception in some areas.

2.3.7. Medical Facilities

Tbilisi is home to the majority of Georgia's large hospitals. Medical institutions, staffed with some English speaking doctors, include MediClub Georgia, IMSS (there are also clinics in Poti and Batumi), David Tatishvili Medical Centre, Oxford Medical Georgia and Interclinic.
